Opera Society Starts Third Big Season Here

The third season of the Opera Society of Washington will open Thursday, Nov. 20, at 8 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium with a performance of Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro." Three performances will be given—Thursday and Friday, Nov. 20 and 21 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 23 at 5:30 p.m.

Donald Gramm, who appeared as Don Alfonso in last season's Opera Society presentation of "Cosi fan tutte," will sing the title role. John Reardon, another veteran of last spring's "Cosi" will be Count Almaviva, with Irene Jordan singing the role of the Countess.

Written in 1786, Lorenzo da Ponte's libretto, based on the comedy by Beaumarchais, is a witty political satire reflecting much of the spirit of the French Revolution. It features some of the best-known music of Mozart.

The season planned this year by the Opera Society will also include the first Washington performance of Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress," Feb. 12, 13, and 15, and Verdi's "Falstaff" Apr. 10, 12, and 13. In addition subscribers will have an opportunity to attend a production of Monteverdi's opera "Orfeo," to be presented Feb. 3 in cooperation with the Institute of Contemporary Arts.

Season subscriptions, at 10% discount on the price of tickets, and memberships in the Opera Society, which entitle members to attend a dress rehearsal and a lecture on opera, are available at the office of the Opera Society, 1745 K st., N.W. For further information, call RE. 7-0582.

TROUBLE IN THE FAR EAST

Al Long, occasional columnist for the News Review, reports that when he was in Little Rock, Ark., on business recently, he naturally found everyone with only one subject on his mind—integrated schools. Steering clear of this touchy subject, Al casually struck up a conversation with a native in the hotel lobby, "Looks like we might have trouble with the Chinese yet, doesn't it?"

"Where's that?" the native replied sharply, "What school are they trying to get into?"

1958 UGF Drive Starts

More than 2,500 local women will carry the message of giving the "united way" next week in a four-day concentrated residential solicitation for the United Givers Fund 1958 fund drive. It is hoped to reach every home in Prince Georges County during the four-day push from Friday to Monday, Oct. 10 through 13.

The door-to-door canvassers are working under the direction of North Forestville, UGF residential chairman for Prince Georges County. Local chairman for the drive is Mrs. Charles McDonald.

Our quota for Greenbelt has been substantially increased this year, Mrs. McDonald noted. A number of residents have already volunteered their services for the drive, she stated, but more help is needed. If you can give any assistance please call Mrs. McDonald at GR. 4-6475.

First returns on the residential campaign will be reported at a luncheon, Oct. 15, at St. John's Church Hall in Clinton. Two further reports will be received at evening meetings on Oct. 21 and 28.

The United Givers drive supports 13 Prince Georges County social and welfare agencies: American Red Cross, Prince Georges Chapter, Boy Scouts, Boys Club, Camp Fire Girls, Catholic Charities, Girl Scouts, Help of Retarded Children, Hospital Service Agency, Mental Health Society, Salvation Army, Social Service League, Visiting Nurse Association, and YMCA. Many other agencies in the District of Columbia also serve county residents, such as the Washington Nearing Society, and the Prevention of Blindness Society.

The overall goal for the National Capital area is seven million dollars. Allocations for Prince Georges county agencies in 1958 amounted to $357,894.

High Point High Points

By Marion Ryss
Over 479,000 seniors from high schools throughout the U. S. took the National Merit Scholarship Exams, but only 800 scholarships were awarded. High Point is honored to have two of the winners in its graduating class, Robert Dutky and William Rushka. William Rushka is president of the High Point Honor Society.

Jackie Hodges, president of the High Point Student Council, and Kenneth Libby, vice president, started this year's Student Council activities off with the election of homeroom representatives Wednesday, Oct. 1. The Student Council was responsible for solving many of last year's problems. This year, with the addition of a student court, almost all school affairs will be handled by the student body. Alan I. Chotiner feels that, "this is the student's school and the students should have a hand in running it."

The High Point "Barons" tackle the Wheaton "Knights" in a football game at Northwestern Stadium on Friday, Oct. 3. The Band, Majorettes, Cheerleaders, and Pom Pom Girls will all perform. This will be this year's debut for the Pom Pom Girls. It promises to be a very exciting game so don't miss it.

Center School PTA

The Center School PTA will meet Oct. 7 at 8 p.m. Following a brief business meeting in the auditorium and introduction of the teachers, open house will be held in the individual classrooms. A resume of the year's curriculum and goals will be given by each child's teacher.

GHI Board Looks into Development Plans; 4-Bedroom Units Favored

By Al Skolnik

Encouraged by the number of applications—10 in the first week—for purchase of the remodeled units in the North End building, the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors turned its attention last Thursday night to the disposition of the remaining undeveloped three acres of the North End tract. At the time of the purchase of the tract from Gilbert Realty, Inc. in early 1957, the co-op's thinking was that the land would be used for a senior citizens housing project.

PG Community College

Dean Robert T. Novak has announced that the fall enrollment at Prince Georges Community College is 191 students. This is one of the largest first-year enrollments of any Community College in the State of Maryland.

The student body consists of 118 part-time students and 73 full-time students, all pursuing courses which will be applicable for transfer to four-year institutions. The college, which operates from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. and uses the facilities of the Suitland Senior High School, offers three transfer curriculums—Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, and Pre-Teacher Education.

Dean Novak said, "The enrollment of 191 students is far above expectations, and it is a real tribute to the residents of Prince Georges County, who have shown such an interest in their new college."

Great Books Club

The newly formed first-year Great Books Club will meet at eight p.m. Thursday, October 9, in the Homemaking Room of the Center School to discuss Plato's Apology and Crito under its new leader. He is Edward Quinn, who has undergone a Great Books leadership training course.

Quinn, who is employed as an administrator for the Office of Naval Research, has an M.A. degree in social psychology from the University of Chicago. Co-leader of the group will be Russell Greenbaum.

Band Wins Trophy

By Marion Ryss
The High Point Band sloshed its way to a trophy for the "best appearing band" at the County Fair in Upper Marlboro on Saturday, Sept. 27. The Band was hampered by having to march in heavy rain and muddy fields. In spite of the rain, however, there was a big turnout at the Fair and the band received a warm welcome. Two other bands competed for this trophy.

JCC BULLETIN

The eminent musicologist, Mr. Arthur Borsky, will conduct sixteen lectures on Jewish Music (Music of the Synagogue, Music of the People) starting Monday, October 6, at 8 p.m., in the JCC Building. Registration will take place on October 6. For further information call Garin, GR. 4-6400, Chasnov, GR. 3-5651.

First "Open House" on Sunday, October 5, from 8 to 11 p.m. Members and friends invited. Highlighting the evening will be a hula-hoop contest.

Last week, however, cold water was thrown on this suggestion in a preliminary report by a three-man committee composed of directors Hans Jorgensen, Lloyd Moore, and George Eshbaugh. The committee stated that the land, which is bound by Ridge rd., Laurel Hill rd., and Research rd., is not a particularly good housing site for elderly people. Besides being opposite a school, the location is far from the shopping center and other community activities. The committee did not think that elderly people who are limited in their ability to get around would be attracted to the relatively isolated spot.

The committee was more favorably disposed toward using the land for construction of 4-bedroom housing units. It said that GHI is sadly deficient in this size housing and that many fine people have been obliged to move from Greenbelt because their family needs exceeded the 3-bedroom units available from GHI.

James Cassels, committee advisor, discussed the possibilities of obtaining FNMA and FHA financing of such a project as a consumer cooperative. Under such sponsorship, forty-year loans at 5 percent would be available, Cassels said. He visualized for the area four row buildings, each containing six housing units. While costs were not firmed up, he thought that a housing unit containing 1600 sq. ft. might be built to sell for $15,000-$16,000. Under an arrangement similar to the perpetual lease now entered into by GHI members, monthly charges might come to about $135.

The board expressed particular concern about the financing of any construction. Upon the urging of directors Frank Lastner and Frank Kriby, the board requested that legal advice be obtained as to the powers and limitations of the board in committing the co-op and its capital to the development of vacant land. "Any decision," Lastner said, "as to what type of housing to erect may depend on the type of financing that the corporation can engage in."

Employees Life Insurance
Management announced that practically all GHI employees have agreed to sign up for the new group life insurance plan being offered by John Hancock Mutual. The corporation will finance 65 percent of the cost of the plan, which provides a $5,000 insurance policy for employees under 65 and $2,000 for employees 65 and over, including accidental death and dismemberment benefits.

News from Campbell
The board heard that Paul M. Campbell expects to end on Feb. 18 his two-year United Nations tour of duty as National Director of Housing for the British West Indies possession of Jamaica. Campbell, who was granted a two-year leave of absence from his post as GHI manager to accept the United Nations assignment, is expected to return to Greenbelt.

North End PTA

The first meeting of the North End PTA will be Oct. 7, 8:15 p.m. After a short business meeting, and introduction of the teachers, parents will be asked to attend their child's classroom for a summary of the coming year's work. Parents who wish to join the PTA may do so before the meeting or during the classroom visit.

The officers elected to serve this year are Joseph Wilkinson, President; Mary Ellen Lentz, Vice President; Muriel King, Secretary; Don Lefever, Treasurer; and William Yates, Historian.

ON SIDEWALKS, ETC.

To the Editor:

I would like to register my agreement with the letter written by Mr. and Mrs. A. Pisano in regard to sidewalks. It cannot be denied that a concrete sidewalk is more attractive and substantial than one patched with blacktop, and that this feature contributes to the value of the property. As maintaining the value of the property is the concern of both the members and the Board of GHI, concrete repair of the sidewalks would be advantageous to all concerned.

In a recent conversation with a GHI official, I am led to believe that this problem has been floating around for several years and was told that whether the sidewalks are GHI property or city property is a moot question. However, I note that GHI has made regulations pertaining to sidewalks adjacent to a member's property and has taken upon itself to patch the sidewalks with blacktop. This conduct indicates ownership by GHI.

Related to this is the newspaper report of the plan to allow a possible 28 different color schemes for the frame houses. I understand that no estimate of the cost of this program has been made. Frankly, I feel that if this plan is executed, the frame houses will look like Coney Island or the '58 autos, which incidentally the American public has been somewhat reluctant to purchase. I would prefer to have my house remain a conservative white, leaving the gaudy colors for the new, treeless projects; and devote the savings to concrete sidewalks. Undoubtedly, there is a financial saving in purchasing large quantities of one variety (white) of paint.

Further savings, that could be devoted to sidewalk, could develop from the new medical insurance policy that applies to board members. Article VI, Section 6 of the By-Laws of GHI states that the Board of Directors shall be compensated at such return as the membership shall direct. Unquestionably, insurance is a fringe benefit, and as such it is compensation. It should follow that the direction of the membership is required for this money to be spent as compensation for the board members.

It is further noted that money was available to remodel the north end store, while this property was uninhabited by members of the corporation.

In conclusion, I feel that the ownership of the sidewalks should be definitely established; that a policy to repair the sidewalks with concrete is required; that repair of sidewalks should take financial priority to flashy paint jobs, fringe benefits to Board members, and extensive remodeling of buildings, where no members are residing.

Tallulah to Star In New Comedy Here

With Tallulah Bankhead starred in the role of the raffish proprietress of a sleazy roadside inn, "Crazy October," a macabre comedy by James Leo Herlihy, comes to the Shubert Theatre, Washington, on Monday night, Oct. 13 for a week engagement. Joan Blondell, last season applauded for her work in "The Rope Dancers" and Estelle Winwood, just returned from a London screen engagement, loom large in a company which includes Jack Weston, as Miss Bankhead's shiftless, calypso-crazed son, and Collin Wilcox, as her harassed wait-ress.

As Daisy Filbertson, owner of The Blue Note, Miss Bankhead is "a steam engine of a woman, who lives for the pleasure of intimidating others. Her speech has the melody of a machine gun, a machine gun with a Southern accent." She badgers her guest, bullies her son and menaces those who would challenge her authority. In the words of author Herlihy, "The Blue Note will interest you because an establishment so blatantly ordinary cannot be without some macabre secret, some amusing incongruity."

"Crazy October" is presented by Walter Starcke, who with Gertrude Macy gave us the delightful "I Am A Camera" some years ago. It is staged by the author. Ben Edwards has designed the single setting—the garish, over-neoned Blue Note—and Alvin Colt has schemed the clothes which cover Miss Bankhead, Miss Blondell and Miss Winwood.

Following its local engagement, "Crazy October" opens at the Alvin Theatre in N. Y. on Nov. 3. Those who have seen early rehearsals say that in Daisy Filbertson Miss Bankhead has her most vivid and provocative role since she played Sabina in "The Skin Of Our Teeth."

Dentists Visits Should Start Early

Remember your first visit to the dentist. Pleasant memories? Probably not. You can help your children avoid unnecessary fear of the dentist.

Dental authorities now suggest that a child's first trip to the dentist be made when he's about three years old. This may seem young, but it has advantages. The child hasn't had a chance to hear frightening tales about visit to the dentists. He won't be able to dramatize the occasion in advance and work himself into a state of anxiety.

In most cases little if any treatment is needed during this early visit. Its chief purpose is to give the child an opportunity to become acquainted with the dentist and his office. Modern dentists have developed excellent techniques for building a youngster's confidence and allaying his fears.

Authorities recommend dental examinations for a child at least twice a year after he is three years old. This gives the dentist a chance to discover any small cavities in the "baby teeth" and fill them promptly. The loss of baby teeth from decay may result in irregularities or crookedness in the permanent teeth. When the first permanent molars appear, around age six dental check-ups are particularly important. These molars may be mistaken for "baby teeth," but they are a part of the permanent set. If they are lost, nature can't replace them.

Good dental health requires, of course, more than regular visits to the dentist. Diet plays an important part in keeping children's teeth and gums healthy. Daily care is also essential. Your dentist will teach your child how to care for his teeth. It's up to you to see that he follows instructions.

Children's Reading

A Parent's Guide to Children's Reading published simultaneously by Pocket Books (35c) and Doubleday ($2.95) on a non-profit basis for the National Book Committee, is written by Dr. Nancy Larrick, a well-known teacher, editor and educational consultant. A Parent's Guide to Children's Reading is designed to help parents help their children to read more, read better and read with growing pleasure and understanding. The book is fully annotated with bibliography of over 350 favorite children's books, and contains excellent sections on how reading is taught in schools, how to build a child's home library and what to do day by day to assure a continued interest by children in their reading.

There is a tremendous amount of publicity and promotion behind this book because, although it is non-profit with all monies going back to the National Book Committee for use by them in furthering their reading development activities, both Pocket Books and Doubleday feel it is vital that this book be read by as many parents as possible to insure higher standards of reading and scholarship by the nation's coming leaders—its children. Special materials telling teachers, parents and youth leaders how to use A Parent's Guide to Children's Reading have been prepared and are being distributed through the 18 national organizations that co-operated in the book's preparation.

PTA's will be discussing this book, librarians will be suggesting it, speakers at teachers' and librarians' work shops held over the country have been talking about it, extension agents and educators will work with this book.

About Modern Israel

Leon Uris "Exodus," a major novel about modern Israel, has recently been published by Doubleday. Opening with events that took place immediately after World War II, when refugees were held on Cyprus after unsuccessful attempts to enter Palestine illegally, it includes many historical events and real-life incidents, ranging from Biblical times to the establishment of the State of Israel ten years ago.

In telling of the pioneers who took part in the country's struggle for independence and recognition, Mr. Uris describes the daily life of the kibbutzim, the organized communities which transformed a wasteland into a garden, and also traces the family backgrounds of several of the main characters. By land, by sea and by air, the children of Israel made their way to the Promised Land—two brothers walked across Europe, 300 unarmed children on a small ship defied an army, hundreds of faithful Yemenites were transported in a daring airlift. Also included are the stories of Englishmen, Arabs and Americans who were passionately or reluctantly involved in the creation of the new nation.

Mr. Uris' extensive research for this book included dozens of interviews and the reading of some 300 non-fiction books. In addition, he traveled 12,000 miles within the borders of Israel, a territory about the size of Connecticut, and visited almost every city, village and collective farm. The well-known novelist ("Battle Cry" and "The Angry Hills") and screenwriter ("Gunfight at O.K. Corral") is writing movie version of "Exodus," to be filmed by Otto Preminger and United Artists.

DEAD SEA SCROLLS

Dr. Charles Francis Potter, the author of The Lost Years of Jesus Revealed, has been a well-known liberal clergyman in New York City for over thirty years. He is the author of many books on religion, including The Story of Religion and The Faiths Men Live By, and is a recognized authority on the Bible as well as being a world-renowned historian. He achieved fame in the middle 1920's through his religious debates with Dr. John Roach Straton and as Bible expert at the Scopes Trial in Dayton, Tenn. In The Lost Years of Jesus Revealed, Dr. Potter discusses the newest discoveries of the Dead Sea Scrolls and what they mean to both Christianity and Judaism—arriving at certain provocative conclusions which should be of interest to every thinking person. LIBRARY NOTES

By Elizabeth B. Hage

The Prince Georges County Fair and Showcase is over. There were many fine exhibits on display representing a lot of time and effort on the part of many people. We hope you didn't get caught in the traffic jam on Saturday; but if you did, just think of what you can tell your Grandchildren! In the event that you didn't get to the fair, or didn't come by the Library exhibit, you'll be interested in picking up your copy of the Library's annual report at your Branch Library. There is also a new list of all the Branch Libraries with their locations and the new hours of opening which became effective Sept. 2.

We are looking forward to the delivery of our new bookmobile early in Oct.; a tentative date of Oct. 10 has been given us. When it is delivered and loaded, it will go on the road immediately, making it possible for the Library to improve its existing service and give service in rural areas where there has been none.

The first mobile unit operated by the Library has been retired from service with a substantial record of commendation. It is to be hoped that its replacement, larger, more comfortable and brilliantly painted, will serve the people of Prince Georges County as well in the years to come. New Bookmobile Schedules will be published and distributed when the new unit arrives.

TOASTMASTERS CLUB

The Greenbelt Toastmasters Club will hold its semi-annual Installation Dinner on Saturday, Oct. 11 at Domino's Restaurant on the Washington blvd. Ken Kenney was elected president and the following officers were named, Vice President Bob Hurst; Vice President Ladd Alexander; Secretary Paul Kasko; Treasurer Art Gross; and Sgt. at Arms Jim Williams.

Succoth-Simchat Torah

The Youth School of the Jewish Community Center of Prince Georges County announces a Succoth-Simchat Torah celebration to be held Sunday morning, Oct. 5, at the JCC building at Westway and Ridge. Classes will be held at the usual time. The program will start at 11:15 p.m. in the auditorium. Parents and friends are invited to participate in this celebration.

Party for Patty Plan Of College Park Woman

A College Park woman, Mrs. Mildred Carlisle, a member of the Ladies Auxiliary, American Legion Post 136, is responsible for the bottles you have been seeing around in local business establishments soliciting your spare change for the benefit of little Patty Glover. Patty, who lives at 16-O Ridge, is the local leukemia victim whose plight was first publicized in the News Review. Mrs. Carlisle hopes to be able to hold a special party soon in Patty's honor—in celebration of her approaching birthday and the Christmas she may never see. The money will go for gifts that Patty really wants, for a big cake with all the trimmings, and for a Christmas tree and Santa Claus. Tentative plans call for holding the party at the Legion hall.

Bottles in which donations may be received have been placed in the following locations: College Park Majorette, bakery counter in Co-op supermarket, Co-op drug store, Hoffman Cleaners, Tanner's Cleaners, Greenbelt Bowling Center, Greenbelt Theatre, New Greenbelt Pharmacy, Ben Franklin Store, Greenbelt Tobacco Store, Legion Post 136, Greenbelt Barber Shop, Co-op Service Station, Flying A Service Station, and Beltsville Inn.

The photographs of Patty which are attached to the bottles were made and donated by Paul R. Kasko, 10-R Southway.

Mrs. Carlisle lives at 9710 52nd ave., College Park.

Does Mama Love Papa?

This should never happen, particularly not in front of the children. Of course there are bound to be disagreements between parents. But they should never be allowed to develop into the sort of thing we see here.

These children are puzzled and frightened. The shrieks of their father and mother terrify them. Homes that rock with family fights can't produce happy, well-adjusted children.

FOR MYSTERY FANS

Philip Marlowe is faced with a tangled bit of scheming to unravel in a new Raymond Chandler yarn, but as always he is up to the task and ready to make the most of the unexpected. It doesn't take much to rouse his curiosity. Attorney Clyde Umney steps on the starter when he engages Marlowe to meet and trail a certain gal arriving on the Super Chief in Los Angeles. And Marlowe takes it from there when he discovers the girl is a voluptuous redhead with a background as puzzling and full of questions as a double crostic. But when he wakes up in a motel bedroom with a battered skull, he realizes he'd better come up with some of the answers—fast!

Raymond Chandler's last book The Long Goodbye won him a Mystery Writers of America Award in 1954, and behind that stretches a long line of bestsellers including The Big Sleep, The Simple Art of Murder, The Little Sister, Murder My Sweet, etc. Published by Houghton Mifflin Company $3.00.)

Enemies and Friends

"Enemies and Friends," a new novel by William Prosser, is being published by Little, Brown and Company. "Enemies and Friends" is the story of a strange marriage between a brilliant architect whose mind is slowly failing, and the dark, beautiful girl, Lisa, far younger than he, whom he marries. The novel is set on an island off the coast of Maine—a locale that Mr. Prosser knows well, since for the last six years he and his family have lived in Me., where he worked in a shipyard before taking his present job as news editor and continuity director of a radio station. Mr. Prosser's first novel, "Nine to Five" has a Hardy-esque plot, illumined by a bright streak of humor. The wild, wilful, pathetic figure of Lisa, around which all other characters revolve, is the center of the story which deals with the ambiguity at the heart of love.

A Dog's Life

Modern Hungary is Setting for Tibor Dery's Fable, "Niki"

Tibor Dery's "Niki," published by Doubleday, is the only work by Hungary's leading novelist to appear so far in this country. The author was a leader of the Hungarian Revolution of 1956, and is now serving a prison term for "anti-state crimes." A tremendous best seller during the week of the ill-fated revolt, numerous printings of "Niki" were turned out by Hungarian presses at that time. The book has been, or will be, published in Italy, France, England, Germany, and Scandinavia.

This book tells us about a dog's life in Hungary. A fable, "Niki" is a tale, simply told, of canine ways and a man's relationship with an animal. Its political satire is understated, but as British reviewer Richard Church says, Niki's story "offers a miniature of the horrors, fears, injustice and blind cruelty of the regime of any police state."

Only 144 pages long, Tibor Dery's book begins in 1948, when Niki, an ordinary terrier, comes to live with the Ancsas, a middle-aged couple residing in the suburbs of Budapest. In many ways, Niki's life parallels that of her master, a top mining engineer and intellectual who is being gradually downgraded by the Party. Transferred abruptly to the city, Ancsa is assigned progressively in his sudden arrest and prolonged imprisonment, without trial or explanation. Not only is Niki faced with the inexplicable absence of the engineer and the abuse of neighbors who knew Ancsa is in disfavor, but her spirit suffers from the restrictions, over which she has no control, which city life puts on her freedom.

DISCOURSE WITH SHADOWS

The story of four survivors of a Nazi concentration camp who meet in Frankfurt after the war and what happens when they try to take revenge on one of their torturers is told in "Discourse With Shadows," a novel by Jean Malcolm, published by Doubleday. A British citizen who was born in Sumatra, raised in Scotland and graduated from Cambridge, Miss Malcolm worked in the Office of the Chief Historian of the U. S. Army Headquarters in Frankfurt where she wrote many historical manuscripts dealing with the United States forces of occupation in Germany. She is now a sub-editor of a woman's magazine in London. "Discourse With Shadows" is her first novel.

The Long View

By Al Long

Former President Harry Truman takes a brisk walk every morning before breakfast and he is hale and hearty, and an ex-President. Senator Theodore F. Green walks every morning and he's in fine fettle, and a Senator. I just want to feel trim and fit and be a top-level career government worker so I decided to take a nice long walk every morning before work.

It must be a lot easier for an ex-President and a senator or else I'm running into unusual trouble. "I'm going to have Joe Loftus pick me up every morning on the Parkway," I announced proudly to Pat one morning last week. "I'm going to start walking every morning, for a couple of miles or so." Now she's been after me to exercise for years but this floored her. For one thing, it will eliminate a pleasant topic of conversation for her. And I guess she thought I'd never make it. So every morning I leave the house with such warnings as: "Don't walk on the road. Watch the traffic. Just walk to Southway and Ridge. Sit down and rest if you feel tired." As soon as I arrive at the office, she calls up, "Everything alright? Did you make it O.K.?" "No," I answer, "I fainted after a half a mile and they took me to the hospital."

Joe Loftus and the rest of the motor poolers go along with the idea but with the ill disguised conviction that it's either a gag for a day or so or else I'm breaking up and they'll try and help me stay out of St. Elizabeth's. There's no place to walk when you walk except the dirt side of the road. My friends speed by me and look the other way, except one or two who shook their heads bewilderingly when I explained I was just walking for exercise. The first morning a police car stopped me and suspiciously inquired as to what I was up to. The driver, obviously a Republican, just snorted when I said, "Just taking my morning walk, like Harry Truman, you know!"

Young women must be more solicitous than men because many more of them stop to offer me a ride than do men, at least five to one. And the percentage is increasing every day—maybe because I'm looking more trim and fit, and have that jaunty Truman-Green bounce.

I'm doing better every day. The first day, my secretary had to help me to my swivel chair. Now I'm able to stagger to it myself and I stop panting by 10 o'clock. Of course, Friday evening I slept right through a conference and missed my ride home but I come from sturdy stock and I'll make it.

LADY COOPER'S MEMOIR

By one of those odd occurrences that often happens in the world of books and theatre, the news that Warner Brothers is now at work on their production of Max Reinhardt's "The Miracle" which they bought in 1927, coincides with the announcement that Lady Diana Cooper, who played the Virgin in the original production, has written her memoirs. Publication date is Oct. 27 by Houghton Mifflin Company ($5.00) in this country. Already a great success in England, The Rainbow Comes and Goes caused Evelyn Waugh to comment: "A book for the library, to be read and re-read, and loved for a lifetime."
